A public health crisis:

- Adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) affect 34.8 million children across socio-economic lines, putting them at higher risk for health, behavioral and learning problems.

- ACEs threaten our health over a lifetime:
  - Dramatically increase the risk for 7 out of 10 of the leading causes of death in the United States.
  - Affect brain development, the immune system, hormonal systems and even the way our DNA is read and transcribed.
  - Can reduce life expectancy by up to 20 years.
Stages of ACEs screening:
Where are you in the ACEs screening process?:

Answer poll via Zoom
NPPC site development:

- Market research
- Medical provider interviews
- Bayview Child Health Center experience
