Our team is available to reach out to a referred child’s family to obtain history regarding the child’s mental health concerns, including the completion of secondary mental health screening instruments to assist in providing diagnostic clarification. We will assist the family in locating and linking the referred child to appropriate mental health treatment or support services in their community.

MEET YOUR PPC HUB TEAM...

Jennifer Abramson, MD, is the child and adolescent psychiatrist for the Atlantic Health System Hubs at Morristown Medical Center and Newton Medical Center. As a member of the PPC, Dr. Abramson shares her talent and expertise with both colleagues and patients who would otherwise not have access to high-quality, child and adolescent psychiatric services. She has been working in her private practice for the past 16 years in child and adolescent psychiatry and has consulted with women at Sanar, a holistic mental health agency that cares for survivors of human trafficking and gender-based violence. Dr. Abramson earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in dance and anthropology from Barnard College and went to medical school at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York, NY. Originally matched in internal medicine, she completed an internship at Mount Sinai. She then began her training in general psychiatry at the University of Washington and finished at NY Weill/ Cornell Medical Center, where she specialized in child and adolescent psychiatry. Dr. Abramson moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania a year later and worked as the consulting psychiatrist at the Center for Autistic Children before relocating to New Jersey.

Beth Aymar, LCSW, is the program coordinator for the Atlantic Health System Hubs at Morristown Medical Center and Newton Medical Center. Beth has years of experience working in the medical field, identifying and responding to the social needs and barriers to care of the most chronically and critically ill patients. Prior to joining the PPC, she worked for Atlantic Health System’s Accountable Care Organization (ACO) where she helped develop and implement social work protocols and procedures for the ACO and Transitions of Care departments. Beth also has extensive experience in inpatient acute, sub-acute and long-term care settings. She earned a Master of Social Work degree from Rutgers University with a specialization in grief, trauma and loss. Additionally, she is a licensed clinical social worker and works as a psychotherapist with adolescents and adults coping with grief and loss, anxiety, and depression.

Jason Minion, MD, was born and raised in Monmouth County, NJ before obtaining his undergraduate degree in Computer Science from The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, MD. Returning to the state, he earned his Doctor of Medicine from New Jersey Medical School in 2011. He then completed his general psychiatry residency and Child and Adolescent Psychiatry fellowship with Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in 2016. Since then, he has been maintaining an outpatient child and adolescent psychiatry practice through Morristown and Overlook Medical Centers. In addition to this general outpatient role, he spent two years in Morristown’s Child Development Center consulting on cases of children with Autism and has spent the past year in Overlook’s Eating Disorders Program. He is excited to be a part of the Pediatric Psychiatry Collaborative as it enables him to work with this community in another fashion.

Miranda Whitney, MSW, is a mental health clinician for the Atlantic Health System Hub at Morristown Medical Center. Before joining the PPC, Miranda worked as a mental health and addictions counselor at the Family & Community Services of Somerset County and provided individual and group-based counseling to children ages 5 through 10 in schools. She earned her Master of Social Work degree from Rutgers University with a concentration in clinical practice.

Amy Giorgi, LSW, began her career as the field supervisor at Home Care Options in Paterson, NJ. She continued her social work career serving in two long term care settings. She later joined Atlantic Health System’s Accountable Care Organization (ACO) as a licensed Social Worker where she was responsible for the creation, implementation, and management of the Post-Acute Care program. Amy obtained her Master’s in Social Work from Rutgers University with a concentration in direct practice. She has extensive experience with data collection and analysis as well as program evaluation and improvement planning.
